

Adobe Document Cloud and Box.

Now there's a better way to work with PDFs.

Digital transformation is no longer optional in business today. Across every industry, companies are transforming manual processes into digital workflows. But one of the big challenges of digital transformation is content management. How and where do you securely store all those files that contain mission-critical corporate data, agreements, and intellectual property? And how do you make sure those files flow seamlessly across the various departments, processes, and systems that run your business?

Adobe Document Cloud and Box have teamed up to help enterprises organize, manage, and collaborate on their most valuable content. Box is an enterprise platform that makes it easy to share ideas, collaborate, and get work done faster by providing secure content management in the cloud. Today, 68% of the Fortune 500 use Box to manage content. Document Cloud helps organizations replace paper processes with digital document workflows. It includes Acrobat DC and Adobe Sign to add powerful document editing, sharing, and approval capabilities to the systems your company uses every day. Now Adobe Document Cloud and Box work hand-in-hand to help your organization accelerate workflows, shorten review cycles, and be more efficient.

Maximize document productivity across your organization.

From sales and HR to legal and procurement, documents are critical to every workflow across your company. And many of those documents are PDFs. Now it's easier than ever to work seamlessly between Box and Document Cloud to manage all your PDF and e-signature workflows:

- Use Acrobat or Acrobat Reader desktop applications to directly open any PDF stored in Box — and add edits or annotations that automatically save back to Box.
- Take advantage of PDF and e-signature workflows seamlessly embedded inside Box with the Acrobat for Box web app. Users can view, search, annotate, create, organize pages, combine files into a single PDF, export PDFs to Microsoft Office formats and send documents for signature. All changes are automatically saved back to Box.
- Improve risk posture with Box's comprehensive security, compliance and governance controls applied to all files stored in Box.

Accelerate business with e-signatures.

Nothing slows down a contract more than handwritten signatures. With the Adobe Acrobat for Box integration, departments across your organization can directly request approvals on documents stored in Box using trusted e-signatures from Adobe Sign. Simply choose the desired document in Box, and select Send with Adobe Sign from the Recommended Apps menu. Add multiple recipients, and even specify where to automatically store the approved documents in Box.

Signers receive an email letting them know the document is ready for approval, and they can sign in just a few clicks—no software installation necessary. Monitor your documents throughout the approval process with real-time tracking and audit trails. Even set up customized workflows to specify different approval chains for different types of documents. Now your company can collect signatures in minutes—instead of hours or days—directly from Box.

Work from anywhere.

The teams you support need to be able to work from anywhere. With the Adobe Acrobat for Box integration, it's easy to access, collaborate on, and share PDFs in the cloud. It's a breeze to send documents for approval or sign them from anywhere.
